I've got data on 5-1/2" and 3-1/2" floppy disks, and on 100 MB Zip disks Pinnacle Dazzle DriversMusic on 33, 45, and 78 rpm vinyl records, 8-track and cassette tape, and CD audio discs. (Thank you, DataViz, for file converter utilities like and for Windows) Hardware formats also continue to evolve, leaving users in a bit of a quandary. Videos on various camcorder tapes - analog and digital, VHS cassettes, and DVD (There are lots of other formats for these things - these are just the ones I have to deal with). Dealing with file formats is one side of it - I've got documents I created in the late 1980s and early 1990s using the first full-featured Windows word processor, predating Microsoft's Word for Windows. I seem to recall that the Dazzle line was a 'Windows only' product, but I'm not positive there. It offered easy page layout features that still surpass anything Microsoft builds into any version of Word. However, many features may be disabled. It has been a while since I have used any Pinnacle software. It meticulously scans all of the nooks and crannies of a computer for junk that can take up huge amounts of disk space. I first bought their hardware (A-DD-A converter) to use on Windows many years ago (at least 8 years).
